India Supreme Court rules privacy a 'fundamental right' in landmark case

*New Delhi (CNN)*In a sign of the digital times we live in, India's top court found itself deliberating a fittingly new-age question: Is privacy a fundamental legal right for 1.34 billion people?

The answer is yes.

On Thursday in the Indian capital, a rare nine-member bench of the Supreme Court issued a historic ruling with potentially widespread consequences, decreeing that a right to privacy is part of the fundamental rights to life and liberty enshrined in the country's constitution.

Hello, I am the UK's first robot lawyer. I can answer questions, draft documents and send appeals. At the moment, I can help with parking tickets, delayed flights/late trains and claiming PPI. Talk to me by typing in the message box below or ask "what can you do" for a list of some examples.

Hello, how can I help?

how are you?

I'm great thank you. Is there anything I can do to help?

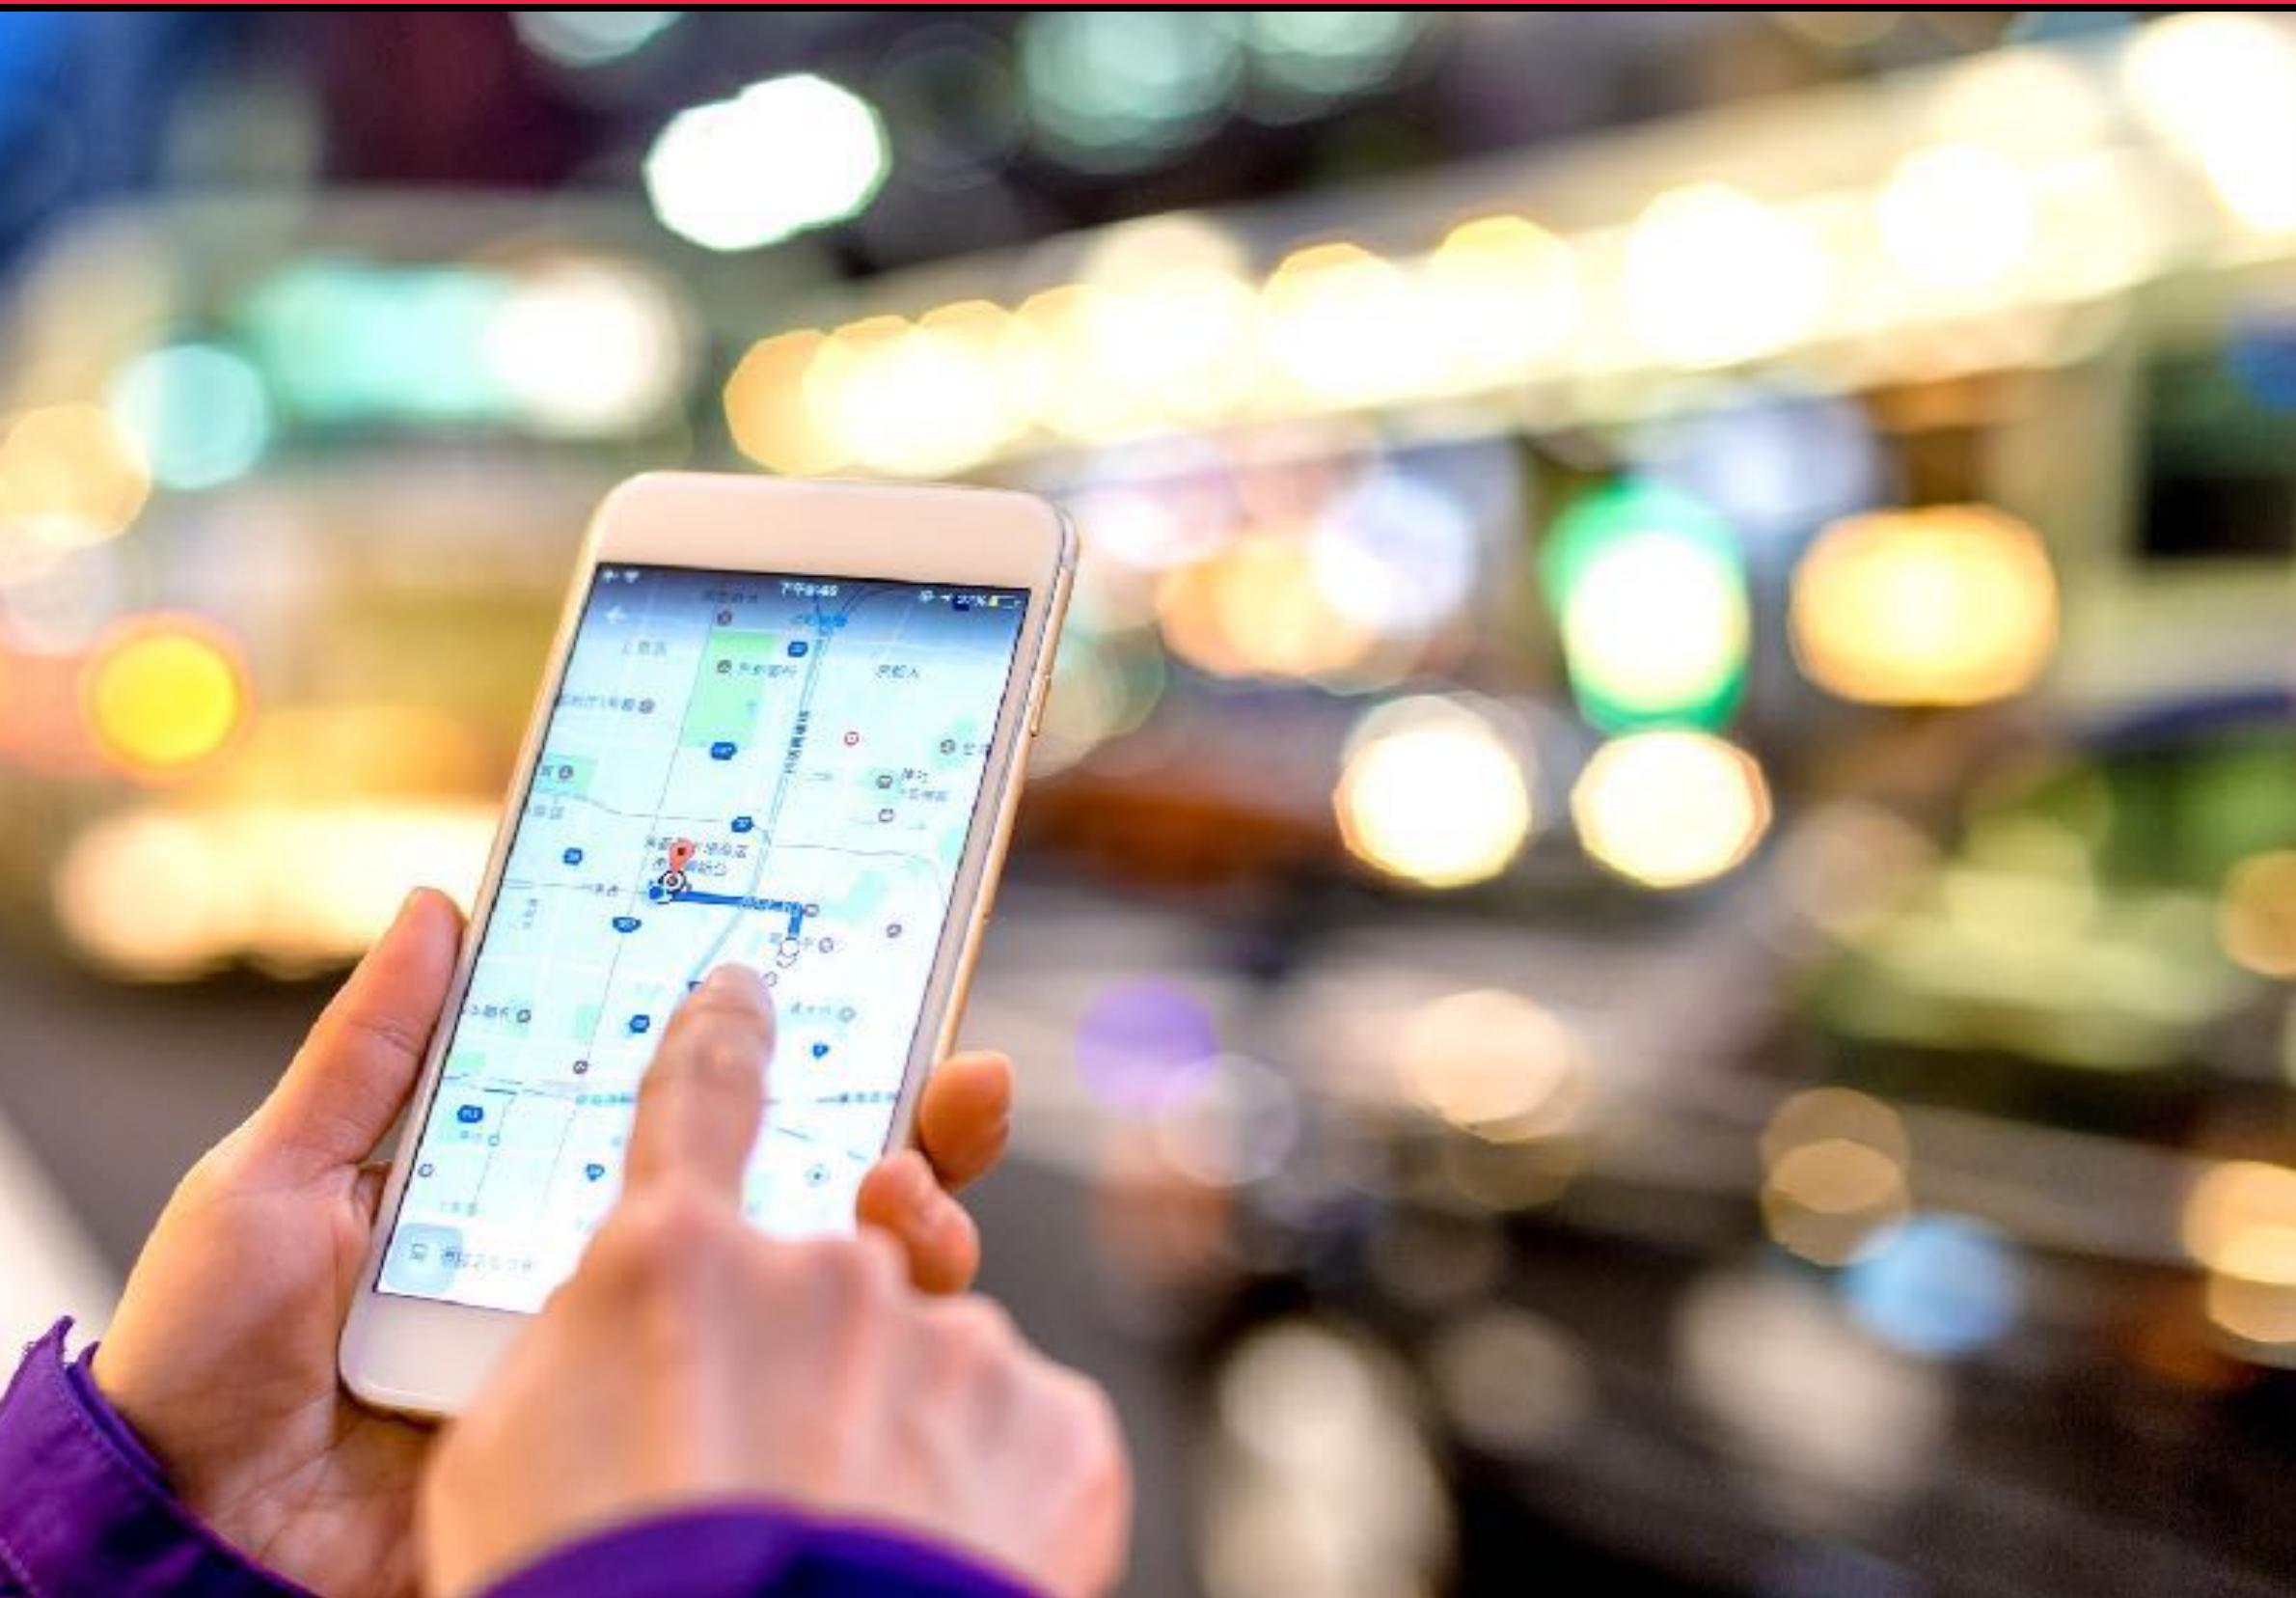

I was on a plane it was delayed

So sorry to hear that. Would you like me to help you get compensation?
